

To the Hiring Manager:

As a fellow Computer Science student at NC State University, I am writing to recommend my former lab mate, Katie Hammer, for a position at your company. Over the past two years, I've witnessed her strong work ethic and effective teamwork firsthand.

During our Software Development lab course, we partnered to develop a Java-based class registration UI in Eclipse IDE. This semester-long project highlighted Katie's reliability and proactive nature. Her skills in pair programming and her openness to feedback significantly contributed to our project's success.

Katie's punctuality and organizational skills ensured that we comfortably met all our deadlines. Given her positive contributions, we chose to team up again for subsequent projects, which further demonstrated her ability to collaborate effectively.

Her straightforward and collaborative approach ensures that Katie is a valuable addition to any team. I confidently recommend her as a dependable candidate who would bring capability and dedication to your projects.

Best regards,
